No, slot machines do not pay in more often with higher bets. The outcome of each spin is determined by a random number generator; a slot machine is determined by a random number generator; so the amount from the bet does not affect the likelihood of winning! However, higher bets can result in a larger payout when a winning combination is hit. Do slot machines pay more for higher bets? The odds are the same, but the potential payout is higher. The chance of winning the top prize when using the maximum bet is the same as when using a smaller bet. Casino stats show that gamblers rarely win.
