A casino host typically determines how much comp (complimentary) you are eligible for based on your level of play and the amount of money you have spent at the casino. This can vary from

Play and wagering on the casino floor. How does a casino host figure out how much comp to give you? They usually use a formula based on your play. For example, if you are a high roller, you might receive more comp than a casual player. Comp can be used for a variety of things, including drinks, meals, and hotel stays. You can get comp through promotions or by playing certain games. For example, playing high-limit games can earn you more comp than playing low-limit games. Comp is usually given in the form of chips or cash. Some casinos also offer comp in the form of free hotel stays or meals. If you are a regular player, you might receive comp automatically. If you are a new player, you might need to ask for comp. Comp is a great way to enjoy the casino without spending too much money. You can get comp through promotions or by playing certain games.
