A key difference between Blackjack and Spanish 21 is that, 10s are removed from the deck in Spanish 21. In Blackjack, the first two cards dealt are dealt equal; an combination of a face Card (Jack), Queen, King, and A. This is because the 10-value cards are removed, increasing the probability of getting a blackjack (an Ace and a 10-value Card) by 10%.

It's a higher rate! In Blackjack: Why should the player and why? -
The question is: How much does the probability of getting a blackjack increase when the 10-value cards are removed?
