Pleyel was founded in 1807 by Ignaz Pleyel, a composer and music publisher who studied with Franz Joseph Haydn. The company became a leader in acoustic innovation, making instruments for music greats such as Frederic Chopin, who only played Pleyel pianos in 1840. Pleyel's Favorite Piano Factory Plays Its Final Chord in 2017, 200 years of his life and was used by him primarily for composing and teaching.
